TELLS SENIOR CLASS TO SET LIFE'S GOAL

Rev. Molyneux Brings Stirring Message To Large Audience

The Christian life was depicted as a pioneer journey by Rev. David E. Molyneux, pastor of the Presbyterian church, to the graduating class of Salem High school at the annual baccalaureate service Sunday evening in the auditorium, which was packed to capacity.

Using for the nucleus of his address the story of God's call to Abraham to leave his own country and journey to Canaan, Rev. Molyneux said he was assuming that the members of the class were on their way to the Canaan, type of a spiritual goal.

"Have a goal toward which you are going, and keep going toward that goal," the speaker advised.

Must Have Determination
Lack of determination and not being willing to pay the price of discipleship are hindrances to reaching a spiritual goal, according to Rev. Molyneux.

"Choose your friends wisely," he said. "They have the power to squeeze the fine juice out of your soul, and leave you relegated to the dump heap."

Stressing the value of good friends, Rev. Molyneux pointed the students to the friend of friends—Jesus Christ.

"We speak of the journey into faith as a pioneer journey because, contrary to the popular impression that religion is handed down, Religion is valueless unless it is a personal experience of its possessor," he said.

"Those who think that religion is in a state of suspended animation make two mistakes."

(1) They misunderstand the working of God's mind. New revelations are made to mankind as the comprehension of man increases.

(2) They misunderstand the meaning of religious experience. Others may help one as he gropes toward an appreciation of God, but in the final analysis, each man walks the road of faith alone.

Appreciation Necessary
"Appreciation of those who have helped us form our early habits of religious practice and who steady us on the journey of faith is a needed virtue, as is perseverance in the face of discouragements."

Other ministers who had part on the program were Rev. C. F. Evans, pastor of the Christian church; Rev. Robert E. Mosher, pastor of the First Friends church; and Rev. R. J. Hunter, pastor of the Baptist church, who presided.

The professional, "Praise Ye the Father" (Gounod) and recessional, "Inauguration March" (McCaughy) were played by the high school orchestra, under the direction of Chester M. Brautigam.

Thomas Crothers, supervisor of music in the public schools, directed the high school chorus, which sang "Jubilate Deo" (Mozart) and "Listen to the Lambs" (Dett). Ben Bailey was the accompanist.

Take Precautions
The precautions which had been taken against rioting in New Delhi were duplicated in other recent trouble spots including Bombay, Calcutta and the Punjab.

None of the Indian conferees who included representatives of the predominantly Hindu Congress party, the Moslem league and the Sikhs—gave any indication of the nature of the plan presented to them or of their reaction to it.

However, it was generally conceded that Mountbatten made a final appeal for adoption of the British cabinet mission plan for a United India. The alternative, to which the British reported reluctantly ready to agree, was partition of India into Hindustan and an independent Moslem state of Pakistan.

The Congress party already has approved the cabinet mission's plan. The Moslem league rejected the plan after first accepting it in principle and there seemed no reason to hope for a last minute change in the Moslem attitude. Although the league has ministers in the interim government it has refused to participate with Congress members in writing a constituent assembly writing a charter for Indian independence.

CITY HOSPITAL FUND $50,218

Nearing Halfway Mark In Campaign to Complete Building Program

Salem City hospital's campaign to raise $125,000 to complete its building fund is near the halfway mark.

Campaign Chairman James H. Wilson today reported a total of $50,218 in cash and pledges. Of this amount $35,818 has been raised in Salem and $14,400 in outside communities.

Walter Bailey, hospital superintendent, reported much progress in Columbia where a local committee is very active. New Waterford also has started its campaign and headway is reported in East Palestine.

Leetonia has just completed its organization and expects to begin solicitation at once.

Construction Proceeding
Construction of the three-story addition to the hospital building has been proceeding despite unfavorable weather. The work is being rushed to eliminate crowded conditions in the main building as soon as possible.

The new wing will bring the hospital's bed capacity to more than 100 and provide improved conditions in all departments.

Total cost of construction and new equipment is placed at $325,000, of which more than $250,000 has been pledged to date.

COAL DISPUTE MAY CUT CONGRESS REST

Session May Miss 10-Day Vacation If Coal Trouble Boils

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Congress may have to cut short its summer vacation if (1) the threatened coal strike develops and (2) the labor disputes bill up for final passage this week becomes law.

Predicting that last week's collapse of wage negotiations will "stimulate" President Truman to sign this bill, Senator Ellender (D-La.) said congress in any event may have to take a direct hand if John L. Lewis calls his united mine workers out of the pits.

In the absence of a new law, Lewis could do this after June 30 without the threat of federal intervention. That is the date expiration of the Smith-Connally plant seizure law forces the government to turn the mines back to private ownership.

Walkout Set For June 27
The miners already are scheduled to go on a ten-day walkout beginning June 27, so any walkout under their traditional "no contract-no work" policy would be delayed beyond that point.

Ellender told a reporter the possibility of a strike is going to make it more difficult than ever for Mr. Truman to veto the compromise labor bill, awaiting expected house approval Wednesday and a senate okay immediately thereafter.

As the situation stands now, the president will be helpless to do anything at all of Lewis calls a strike after June 30. The Louisiana senator said, "On the other hand, if this bill becomes law, the government will have the right to step in with an injunction to stop a strike."

Senator Hill (D-Ala.), who voted against the labor bill, conceded that the threat of a coal stoppage will make the president's decision more trying. But Hill stuck to his prediction that a veto will be forthcoming.

Forecasting that congress will override a veto if there is one, Ellender noted this might cut the legislators' vacation short if efforts to settle a strike fail.

May Was Latest Planting Season—But Not Wettest

May, 1947, will go down in history as the latest planting season on record, but with all of its 5-15 inches of rainfall on 18 of the 31 days it wasn't the wettest month. It was merely one of the wettest and coldest, we are reminded by Weather Observer L. H. Copeland of Millport.

To prove how easily most of us forget, Copeland's records show that last year May produced 6.55 inches of rain and thus became the wettest May on record.

But the month just closed claims one record—an all-time low of 19 degrees on May 10. The month's average temperature of 54.2 degrees was far below the normal of 58 for the last 55 years. From the minimum of 19 on the 10th, the temperature jumped to a high of 82 on the 24th.

From April 16 to May 31 it rained on 30 days, a total of 8.2 inches, equivalent to 830 tons of water on each acre of ground.

If you're still not convinced that this has been a year of rare weather, listen again to Copeland:

"The year is now short 1770 degrees in temperature and practically normal in precipitation."

And his report did not overlook the trace of snow last month. With 40 per cent sunshine (normal is 50 per cent), last month produced eight clear days, 11 cloudy and 12 partly cloudy.

"Very little oats are planted and practically no corn is in the ground," Copeland reports. "Much plowing has not been completed."

However, he says the pastures, meadows and wheat fields are excellent and fruit prospects are good.

The coldest May, 1924, had an average temperature of 51.7 degrees; the warmest, 64 degrees, was recorded in 1918. Wettest was last year and the driest, 62 of an inch, was in 1934.

Holiday Traffic Is Heavy, Mishaps Low
A relatively light Memorial day weekend was reported today by the state patrol in this district, with only a few minor accidents recorded, despite a heavy stream of holiday traffic.

In four accidents, only two persons were injured. They were: Mary Botsco of Youngstown, abrasions of right leg and arm and bruised hip.

Leroy Walter, 43, of R. D. 1, Berlin Center, lacerated right hand.

Mrs. Botsco was injured when a car driven by Jacob Haus, 66, of R. D. 2, Canfield, emerged from a country lane on the Calla-North Benton road at 11:45 a. m. Sunday and struck the car driven by her husband, John Botsco Jr., 38. Haus was arrested, pending filing of formal charges.

Motorcycle Crashes
Walter was injured when a motorcycle he was driving, slipped and overturned at 4:05 p. m. Sunday on the Beidle road, two miles north of Route 224.

A truck, filled with furniture, driven by Griffin Willis, 32, of Grand Rapids, Mich., overturned at 5:55 p. m. Sunday on Route 14, one mile east of Unity.

He reported that one of the wheels of the truck locked when the brakes were applied, upsetting the vehicle in the culvert.

Six cars bumped fenders and bumpers after a sudden stop on Route 30, three miles south of the junction of Routes 7 and 30 at 5:30 p. m. Sunday. Small damage was reported to the vehicles involved.

A state-wide state patrol report showed investigation of 259 accidents for the period of Thursday through Sunday. Four persons were killed and 210 injured in Ohio as a result. Only those accidents investigated by the patrol were included in the report.

Death Toll Lower Than Expected To Be
Violent deaths during the nation's three-day Memorial day holiday totaled 498 today, with automobile mishaps causing 223 fatalities.

Ninety-five deaths in the country's two worst airline crashes and 47 known dead in tornadoes in Arkansas and Oklahoma boosted the toll from miscellaneous violent causes, homicides excepted, to 213 (CQ). Drownings totaled 62.

The 223 total of traffic deaths was far ahead of the 164 for the four-day Memorial day weekend last year, but well under the 275 predicted by the National Safety Council for the period up to last night.

PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION PRESENTS PLAN, ISSUES WARNING FOR ADOPTION SOON

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The nation heard from a commission of nine prominent civilians today that the compulsory training of up to 950,000 American youths a year is an "urgent military necessity" in this world of insecure peace.

The alternative to that and other multi-billion dollar outlays for national defense is to invite "extermination," President Truman's advisory commission on universal training declared. The group painted this bleak picture of the future if its warning goes unheeded.

For few years—from four to ten—"our monopoly of the atomic bomb" and the availability of battle-trained veterans of World War II may serve as insurance against a sneak assault on the American homeland.

But the precipitate drop in the nation's state of readiness—"our military forces are a hollow shell"—will encourage "those to whom weakness on the part of peace-loving nations is a passport to aggression."

Others May Lose Faith
Other countries who share our Democratic ideals will lose faith. And then:

"The mantle of totalitarianism will spread its darkness over still larger sections of the earth, increasing the peril to us and narrowing the company of those on whose aid we can count in the search for lasting peace."

The document was drafted and signed unanimously by the nine members of the commission headed by Dr. Karl T. Compton, scientist and president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The vote of urgency which the commission gave its findings was not echoed immediately in congress.

There was every indication there that aside from possible enactment of an Army-Navy unification bill this summer—a companion step urged by the commission—any long-range defense program will have to await the next session beginning in January.

Although the Compton group went along with Mr. Truman's request that the official name of the project be only "universal training," with the original word "military" deleted, it asserted:

"The only basis on which universal training should be accepted, in our opinion, is a demonstration that it is needed to insure our safety in a world in which peace is not yet secure."

Cite Benefits
Other benefits—physical, mental and moral—would be "byproducts of a project which is made necessary by the state of the world today."

As proposed by the commission, the program would follow this outline:

On the basis of census figures, between 1,000,000 and 1,100,000 male youths would become eligible for training annually for the next few years (eligibility for training would start at age 18 or upon completion of High school, whichever occurred first).

Out of this total, an estimated 300,000 would be physically or mentally incapacitated. An additional 50,000 to 100,000 would not meet present Army and Navy standards but still could be trained in some form. Taking variations into account a pool of not less than 750,000 or more than 950,000, thus would be eligible for training.

Basic training in camp or aboard a ship (a choice of services would be given so far as possible) would last six months. The training would be consistent with developing weapons and techniques in warfare.

Optional Acts Available
Upon completion of the six months basic training, a series of options would be open to the trainee, including enlistment in the regular Army, Navy or Marine corps, entrance into a service academy (West Point or Annapolis), enlistment in the National Guard or attendance at a college with an ROTC program.

The administrators: a commission of three members, two of them civilians, reporting directly to the president; a general advisory board representative of the public with local civilian advisory committees.

The cost: between $1,750,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 a year.

"The time" the program would be under way about one year after approval by congress and would be fully effective in about five years. In other words, it would take that long to create a pool of men trained for duty in any emergency.

TORNADO RIPS ARKANSAS, OKLAHOMA WITH TOLL OF 43 DEAD, HUNDREDS HURT

(By Associated Press)

Storm-lashed Arkansas and Oklahoma counted at least 43 dead and hundreds injured today from tornadoes which swept through rural areas causing thousands of dollars of property damage.

Hardest hit was a heavily populated agricultural region near Pine Bluff in Southeastern Arkansas. Thirty-seven bodies were reported recovered and about 15 persons were believed missing.

A large proportion of the dead were children.

Hundreds were injured as the rich Arkansas farming area yesterday, narrowly missing Pine Bluff, a city of 40,000.

Levels Most of Leedey
In Oklahoma, three-fourths of the town of Leedey was leveled Saturday night. Six persons were killed and about 25 injured. The town has a population of 600.

Both states were hit earlier this year by severe storms. In April, tornadoes in Northern Arkansas and Northwestern Oklahoma caused more than 100 deaths and heavy property damage.

In yesterday's Arkansas storm, estimates of the number of homes destroyed ranged as high as 1,000. So great was the force of the wind that bridges "were literally blown away across bays" and trees were tipped to splinters.

Whole families—Negro and white—were wiped out," said Pine Bluff Mayor George Steed. "I saw 10 Negroes all in one heap. The buildings were leveled and the only evidence

MAGNETIC EYE SEES IRON ORE FROM THE SKY

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK—A flying magnetic eye, used in exploring for oil and iron, proved itself at Little America as a tool for peering through the dark Antarctic icecap to the earth beneath.

One of its findings, said James R. Balsley, geophysicist of the U. S. Geological Survey, was a buried land area 110 miles southwest of Little America which might be an extinct volcano or possibly an iron deposit.

This eye is the magnetic airborne detector—nicknamed MAD—adapted for geologic work from the wartime instrument for spotting submarines under water. Radar was confined to the surface; but the MAD could snoop beneath the waves.

Speeds Up Surveys

The MAD permits a quick, relatively inexpensive scouting for areas likely to contain oil, iron, or other minerals. Various rock formations and ore-bearing rock have different magnetic properties. MAD can detect even small changes in these properties, and it automatically records the magnetic "signatures" of the terrain flown over. The MAD is towed behind an airplane in a casing shaped like a 500-pound bomb.

At Little America Balsley made four flights with the MAD. After analyzing results, he found that the strongest magnetic kick was obtained at a point 110 miles southwest of the camp. This, he said, suggests that an extinct volcano or highly magnetic ore deposit lies buried there under the Ross Sea ice shelf.

MAD also indicated that part of the ice-buried eastern shore of the Ross sea lies 30 miles farther east than as appears on maps. It indicated also, Balsley said, that Rockwell Island is composed of granite rock, one type of ore-bearing formation.

New Islands Spotted

"We found what might be a small island buried under the ice south of Lindbergh inlet, and another one south of Kainan Bay. Existence of such islands had been conjectured earlier as a means of explaining why the shelf ice forms the pattern of the inlet and bay at these two places."

Coral is found in sedimentary type rock. Granite type rocks may contain iron, copper, nickel or chromium and other metals. MAD, however, cannot locate special deposits of one kind or another, but can indicate the most favorable areas.

The MAD has surveyed over 100,000 square miles, Balsley said, principally in quest of oil and iron.

Harvard Meteorologist Finds Basis For Long-Range Forecasts In Regional Trends

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK—A basis for some general long range weather forecasts, by using certain regions as weather indicators, is reported by Irving I. Schell in a Harvard university meteorological study.

The method worked 11 out of 14 times in predicting less or more winter precipitation than normal for Montana and for Florida in seven different years, he said.

Weather in one region often affects weather in a distant region. Further, Schell said, in some areas the same general kind of weather tends to persist from one season into the next. Where this happens, he said, the earlier season can be used to predict roughly what the next season's weather will be like in the distant region.

Schell said he found four examples of such weather effects after studying records over many years. They concern winter precipitation in northern and northwest Europe, and the southern East Indies Monsoon season.

The American Northwest, he explained, receives more storms from the Pacific and more rain or snow than normally in December through February when there generally are low pressures in those same months in tropical Australasia—at such points as Calcutta, Batavia, Port Darwin, and Manila. Conversely, generally high pressures there mean fewer storms and less precipitation.

The tendency for pressures to be either high or low seems to persist from the preceding three months, thus giving a basis for forecasts, he said.

The American southeast can be tied in, he added, because the southeastern states tend to have just the opposite relative winter precipitation than the Northwest.

In actual predictions, Schell said, he missed twice on Montana in seven years, and once on Florida. On all three misses, he added, the deviations in the Australasian pressures had been slight.

Northern Europe tends to have colder weather in February and March when there has been less-than-normal movement of warmer air across the eastern North Atlantic into the Arctic regions in January and February, he said.

Conversely, a greater volume of warmer air moving into the Arctic in those months means less cold air coming out later. This circulation across the Atlantic can be measured roughly.

Ice from the Greenland sea drifts southward in April through July. When it comes farther south than normally, it apparently helps put the North Atlantic storm track of October-December farther south.

Schell said. This means more storms and more rainfall for Erie, Great Britain, Denmark and other areas of northern Norway, he said. The opposite appears to hold when the sea ice stays farther north than usual, Schell continued.

In a fourth example, Schell said that above normal pressure at Port Darwin in November appears associated with the late development of the monsoon and below normal November rainfall in the southern East Indies.

Below normal pressure there apparently means early Monsoon development and more rain, he said. Strong persistence is found in the east-October on through November pressure at Port Darwin from Australia, he reported.

Refrigerator rolls are not hard to make.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
EVERYONE likes yeast rolls. But too many cooks have the wrong impression about them. They are not difficult to make, requiring neither much time nor skill.

This refrigerator recipe, which makes it possible to bake a very small number of rolls at one time, is the best choice for the small family. Many different types of rolls can be shaped from a single batch of this satiny dough.

Refrigerator Rolls
(Yield: about 2½ dozen rolls)

Two cakes yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ cup sugar, ½ cup shortening, 3 eggs, 5 cups (approximately) sifted enriched flour.

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk, add salt, sugar and shortening and cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Add yeast and beaten eggs. Blend thoroughly. Add remaining flour to make soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in a lightly greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place (80 to 85 degrees F.) until doubled in bulk. Punch down, form into smooth ball. Grease the surface lightly, cover and put into refrigerator. When wanted, remove dough from refrigerator and punch down. Mold at once into any desired shape. Or, if preferred, let dough stand in warm room for an hour before molding.

To make Cloverleaf rolls, form dough into small balls (about ¾ in. in diameter). Dip each into melted butter and place 3 balls in each section of greased muffin pan.

To make Crescent rolls, roll ball of dough into circular shape about ¼ inch thick. Cut in pie-shaped pieces. Brush with melted butter and roll up, beginning at the wide end. Curve into crescents on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

* WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

A New York educator claims most of the public hates children. He protests that "this hatred of children and anger at them is a serious adult symptom."

Letters I receive convince me the educator isn't exaggerating. Never have I read such vicious attacks on children as are in these letters. Most of them are from women who say, "I've raised my own family, so why should I be annoyed by neighborhood children?"

That's the usual theme song. Why should I be bothered? They're not my children. Why don't their mothers keep them in their own yards, where they belong?

And in these letters children have done nothing more vicious than pick a flower, cut across a neighbor's lawn, or climb a garden tree. These acts aroused so much anger in letter writers that the children are described to sound like hardened criminals.

No wonder we have a juvenile delinquency problem. If this hatred of children is as widespread and deep-rooted as these letters indicate.

The educator quoted above also said, "I have never encountered a delinquent child who had what I would call a decent adult friend."

Think that over, you good women who get enraged at the sight of a small child on your prized lawn.

Wierd Game With Yankees Sees Tribe Lose 11-9 In Slugfest

INDIANS NOW SAY NEW YORK HAS OLD CHAMPIONSHIP ZIP

Seven Homers Featured In Partially Wet Fray At Stadium Sunday

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, June 2.—Jolted by Jolting Joe DiMaggio, the Cleveland Indians admitted today that the rejuvenated Yankee Clipper had returned to his sensational pre-war form.

Carrying a slim 7-6 lead into the eighth inning yesterday, the Tribe's victory hopes received a four-run jolt in the form of DiMaggio's grand slam homer as the New Yorkers coped their second straight triumph 11-9 over the Indians in a weird contest watched by 47,132 fans.

Charley (King Kong) Keller started the seven-homer slugfest in the second, soaring into American league leadership with his 12th circuit clout. DiMaggio then duplicated Keller's feat.

A downpour which delayed more than an hour, failed to cool off the Bronx Bombers. They renewed their assault on Tribe Starter Steve Gromek to build up a 5-4 lead. New York First Baseman George McQuinn contributed the third Yankee homer during the rally.

Staging a four-run uprising in the fifth, the Indians climbed back into the ball game, and appeared to have it tucked away in the seventh when Relief Pitcher Bob Lemon and Hal Peck belted consecutive round trippers.

Eddie Robinson clouted his fourth homer with one aboard in the eighth to spark a desperate Tribe rally, but the Redskins never overcame the effects of DiMaggio's second four-bagger.

Nine pitchers toiled in the free-hitting tilt, and Lemon was charged with his first loss, while Lyons received credit for the victory. The second game was postponed until today because of darkness.

The Indians' front office announced today that some 10,000 fans who failed to use their tickets for yesterday's scheduled doubleheader would be given tickets to a future game by applying at the box office. Red Embree and Al Gettel were slated to hurl for the Tribe today as the Indians attempt to salvage the final two games of the series against the Yankees' Don Johnson and Mel Queen.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of sister, Sadie Lottman who passed away into the higher life, 4 years ago, May 28, 1943.

Sometimes, I long for the soothing touch
Of a hand so dear to me,
A tender smile so angel sweet
I strain my eyes to see.

Then memory brings a blessing rare,
Perhaps in a violet-blue;
Or in the velvet-hue of a rose,
I feel the touch of you.

It may be a part of a song we've sung,
Or a fragrance in the air;
Or in the paths of the silvery moon
My glad eyes see you there.

Oh, let me smile as the years go by
And cling to ideals true,
Since all things, fair in this fair world,
Is but a touch of you.

SEES NO ACTION ON DRAFT PLANS UNTIL NEXT YEAR

Writer Voices Opinions On Results of Report By Truman's Group

WASHINGTON, June 2.—There will be much talk now but don't expect the subject of universal service to be settled this year.

(Universal service is the nice language people in Washington use when they mean compulsory military training for young men.)

Talk of such a program was revived with a big bang over the holiday weekend. It can't happen until, or unless, congress passes a law.

But congress, which wants to quit for 1947 by August 1, is already loaded down with work without tackling this problem.

There's been talk of compulsory training for the past two years but this is how it broke out again over the weekend:

A special commission, created by President Truman six months ago to study the subject, last night made its report.

Outlines Eight Steps

The report recommended about a year of military training for young men. It said we need trained men in case of a "sneak" atomic attack.

Altogether, the commission outlined eight steps, including compulsory training, which it thinks should be taken for national defense.

Last Friday a group of Republican senators issued a statement of their own, saying they were making a study of the whole problem of national defense.

This statement, like the report of the president's commission, listed eight steps which should be considered in setting up a national defense program.

It didn't mention universal training or compulsory training. The statement was vague on that score.

When will the Republicans' full study, which seem to be paralleling that of the president's commission, be ready?

Sometime before congress goes home for the summer, probably.

One of the Republicans, Senator Dworshak of Idaho, said a staff of senators' assistants has been working on the study three or four months.

(They apparently started work a couple of months after the president's commission started its work.)

Since it seems certain congress can't do anything about either study until 1948, which is a presidential election year, this writer asked

Dworshak: "Do you think compulsory military training may be a campaign issue in 1948?"

The senator said: "No. No one would let his country's welfare, the national defense, get involved in politics."

TORNADO

roughly from 10 miles southwest of Pine Bluff to 10 miles southeast of the city.

Some Places Wiped Out
Taxicabs, private automobiles and trucks were used to bring the victims to Pine Bluff.

Some rural communities in the path of the storm were reported virtually wiped out. Many frame houses of tenant farmers were in the area. The national guard was called out to prevent possible looting of the wrecked buildings.

Cots were used to augment the beds in Pine Bluff's hospital which was reported filled within two hours after the tornado. Other large buildings in Pine Bluff were opened to those with minor injuries and the homeless.

The alertness of Jack Sapp, a telephone worker, was credited with holding down the death toll in the Leedey, Okla., storm. He saw the twister approach and turned on the town's fire siren and shouted warnings over a loudspeaker system.

Rescue parties worked through the night with the aid of lanterns and flashlight since the town's power system was knocked out.

Leedey is south of Woodward, Okla., where 102 were killed April 9 by a tornado. Saturday's twister entered Northwestern Oklahoma from Texas and passed near Gage and Arnett, Okla., before striking Leedey.
